

My Goals: Short-Term vs. Long-Term

Name: _____ Date: _____

Understanding the Difference

Short-Term Goals	Long-Term Goals	Why It Matters
Achieve in 1-4 weeks	Achieve in 3-12 months	Builds momentum
Small, concrete steps	The bigger picture	Gives direction
Quick sense of progress	Meaningful life direction	Keeps you going

Part 1: What Matters Most to Me

Think about the areas of life where you want to feel more freedom and ease. Check what feels important:

- ☐ Relationships (family, friends, partner)
- ☐ Work or school
- ☐ Daily routines (morning, bedtime, meals)
- ☐ Hobbies and enjoyment
- ☐ Health and self-care
- ☐ Independence and confidence
- ☐ Being present in the moment

Part 2: My Short-Term Goals (Next 1-4 Weeks)

These are small, specific steps. Think: 'What is one thing I can do this week to move toward the life I want?'

#	My Short-Term Goal	Area of Life	By When?

Examples:

- Spend 20 minutes doing something I enjoy without stopping to check or redo it.
- Leave the house within 5 minutes of being ready, even if it feels uncomfortable.
- Let one 'what if' thought pass without acting on it, once per day.

Part 3: My Long-Term Goals (Next 3-12 Months)

Think bigger. If you had more freedom from the habits and patterns that hold you back, what would your life look like?

#	My Long-Term Goal	Area of Life	What Will Be Different?

Examples:

- Go on a trip without spending hours preparing or feeling stuck.
- Trust my own decisions without needing to double-check or ask for reassurance.
- Have my morning routine take 30 minutes, not 2 hours.

Part 4: Connecting the Two

Pick ONE long-term goal from above. Now break it down into steps.

My Long-Term Goal:

What short-term steps will help me get there?

Step	Week I'll Start
2.
3.

Part 5: What Might Get in the Way?

Be honest with yourself. What patterns or urges might try to pull you off track?

The Pull I Might Feel	What I'll Do Instead
e.g., The urge to redo or check until	Notice the urge, take a breath, and
it feels 'just right'	move on to my next activity

Part 6: Weekly Check-In

At the end of each week, take 2 minutes to reflect:

What did I follow through on?

What felt hard but I did anyway?

What do I want to adjust for next week?

Reminder

Progress is not about being perfect. It's about choosing to move toward what matters, even when it feels uncomfortable. Every small step counts.
